Dissolving the Veils Between Worlds

That Which Never Dies

By way of love, by way of attunement, by way of connection with the undying spirit that lives and breathes and moves in all that is, past/present/future, this weekend is devoted to venturing further into experiencing the meeting of the visible and invisible worlds and dissolving the veils that appear to separate us.

Through dance invocations, tonal incantations, through song, writing and full-bodied prayer we will cross over again and again offering our bodies and voices as vehicles to honor our dead ancestors and to journey all the way to communion with 'that which never dies'.
